A POKER STORY.

HOW A MARIPOSA WOMAN "SAW" HER HUSBAND AND "PASSED" HIM OUT.

[From the Mariposa Gazette.]

It is of an old mountaineer who lives in a settlement away up in the high Sierras, above Mariposa, and has an occasional weakness for sporting. He was indulging in a quiet game of "[illegible]" a few evenings since. It was a sociable, four-handed game, and his deal. The "ante" was four bits, and it was a "double pot." His left-hand man had "gone a dollar blind." After the deal, the next fellow "saw the blind," then the next fellow "came in," and Fred, (the fellow we spoke of in the first place) picked up his hand. He had "two big pair, aces up," and he just throwed up seven [illegible] remarking "five better." The chap who went the "blind" threw a dollar into the "pot" to "make the blind good," and then commencing to fumble over his pile of silver, he counted out five dollars and "set it in." Then said he, "That sees your five, Fred," and he began piling up a stack of silver, and there didn't seem to be enough to suit him, so he went into his pocket for his "weasel-skin." Unrolling a long buckskin string from around his purse, he opened it and took out a twenty. Balancing the coin on his forefinger, he says, "Fred, I go you—" [illegible] say how much this fellow who "went the blind" would have "[illegible] it," for at this very moment there was a quick step, and the rustle of calico on the [illegible] the door flew open and a woman walked in. It was Fred's wife. She "saw" them all, and "went 'em" ever so much "better." The gentleman who was present said "[illegible]," but just raked the 'pot' into her apron, took Fred under her wing, and walked him home." Fred didn't say a word, but went away in good humor enough. The fellow that "went the blind," he says [illegible] to be the sickest. He must have held a "flush" or a "pat full."

Next day Fred reappeared near the scene of the little episode. About the same old crowd were on the ground. He asked them and the outsiders to take a drink. They felt so sorry for the occurrence that none of them had the heart to refuse. Then they began to sling around their sympathy. One said he "never felt so bad about anything in his life." "I hated to have a thing of that sort happen," remarked a second. Occasionally an outsider chipped in. The fellow who "went the blind" shook his head and said: "Well, if that had been my wife—I don't know." About this time Fred got hot. Says he: "This thing has gone about far enough." Throwing off his coat and stepping outside for room, he placed himself in fighting position and spoke thus-wise: "Maybe some of you don't like what that woman did. Any of you who has a word to say can step out here, and I'll whip him in half a minute. That woman was my wife, and I say she did just right, and d—n me if I can't whip any man who takes my part." They all "passed."

PIUS IX. ON GLADSTONE.—Rome, November 10.—The Pope to-day granted audience to a deputation of British Catholics who had come to the Vatican to express the steadfast allegiance of Catholics of Great Britain to the Church of Rome. In reply to an address presented by the deputation, the Pope referred in bitter terms to the anti-Papal manifesto issued by Gladstone. He said that Gladstone had become intoxicated by the proceedings of Bismarck against the church, and like a viper assailed Saint Peter. In answer to a question as to whether he had read Gladstone's manifesto, he said no, he was not desirous of reading Gladstone's blasphemies.

Archbishop Manning of England and numerous other Bishops will shortly visit Rome to hold an interview with the Pope relative, it is presumed, to the proposed Catholic Congress in London.

The snow storm last week extended over Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada.

OREGON.

A Marion county man who came to Oregon in 1819, says Gov. Douglas, of the Hudson Bay Company, always pronounced the name of our river "Wallameck."

It is thought that the bar at the mouth of the Coquille river can be improved so as to admit vessels large enough to carry coal and lumber profitably for the amount asked for of Congress—$200,000.

The town of Gervais, in Marion county, held her first municipal election on last Monday. The offices were filled as follows: Recorder, Benj. P. Stevens; Marshal, P. K. Murphy; Treasurer, Samuel L. Gaines; Trustees, J. H. Palmer, B. A. Nathman, J. H. Cooley, G. A. Shephard and F. Niller.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the Secretary of State's office last Monday of the "Granger's Publishing Company," of Albany, Linn county. S. Montgomery, Martin Luper, Geo. F. Simpson, Allen Parker and A. P. Morris, incorporators. Capital stock $1,000; shares, $21. Place of business, Albany.

Mr. Wilkins, of Lane county, recently sent some wool from his flock of New Oxfordshire sheep to a firm in Philadelphia, to test its adaptability for making the finest fabrics, such as delaines, etc. He has received as answer to the test, and a remittance that fully equals his expectations, and the comments are: "The sample bag of wool suited our purpose, but if you can obtain a finer staple we advise you to do so, as it would increase the value of the wool. The wool sent us was strictly combing wool. We enclose a few staples of fine wool, which we use in manufacturing our goods. We send them only as samples for fleece staple, not for the length, as we use nothing shorter than the shortest sample. The wool received was coarser than the sample, but suited our purpose first-rate, notwithstanding." The fleeces sent to the factory were longer staple, but coarser than the sample, and Mr. Wilkins feels confident that he can breed up to the finest standard without difficulty.

THE NEXT PRESIDENT.

Thus discourses the San Francisco Bulletin on the momentous question of who shall be the next President of the United States:

Nearly all the Presidential calculations which had been engaging the attention of politicians for some time past have not only to be rectified, but absolutely erased. There is no longer any necessity for information on the subject of the third term. Either one of two parties had to speak out on that question—the President or the people. In consequence of the reticence of the President the latter had to undertake the task. That they have done so clearly and unmistakably cannot be doubted. It may be, too, that this determination carries with it all military candidates. It is only occasionally that a great soldier proves to be a great statesman. Julius Cæsar, the first Napoleon and Frederick the Great were exceptions; but, instead of destroying the rule, they only establish it. Besides, the traditions of West Point, from which all accomplished soldiers issue, are opposed to the traditions of civil government. West Point looks to promotion and permanency in office. It is also very apt to take obedience to itself, no matter from what cause it may proceed, for civic virtue.

If we are not mistaken in this proposition, the next President will be taken from the ranks of civic life. It is said that the candidate of the Administration will be Elihu B. Washburne, our present Minister to France. Mr. Washburne is entitled to the credit of having discovered that military talent in General Grant which did so much to save the country. It is certain that on Grant's election to the Presidency everything at the disposal of the Administration was at his service. He was Secretary of the Treasury for a few weeks, and then changed his mind and went to France. If the Administration is for Mr. Washburne, it means that 60,000 office-holders shall work to secure his nomination. This is an arrangement which leaves out of view altogether the principals in such a matter as the selection of a President that is to say, the people. But we might have a worse man than Mr. Washburne for Chief Magistrate of the nation. He is ruggedly honest, but for all that is a negative man. There is nothing really of record by which the quality of his mind can be tested. He has not made many speeches, but this would not be conclusive against his statesmanship.

A MYSTERIOUS TRAY.

The San Francisco Bulletin has been led by recent developments, to a discussion of some curious facts in the way of money-making. One of the strange cases noted is thus described.

A recent trial in one of our courts developed the fact that a tray containing $2,000 was brought into a room, where there were a number of men, on the occasion of the election of a Supervisor. There was no sufficient explanation for the appearance of this tray with its [illegible] It was not exposed merely as an evidence of the growth and power of our common country! There was no testimony that anything symbolical was intended. On the contrary, persons walked off with various sums, but nobody thought of inquiring who they were or why they were helping themselves. In course of a short time the whole pile disappeared, as might naturally be expected. No parallel for a transaction like this can be found in the ordinary walks of life. W. C. Ralston or Wm. T. Coleman cannot be found making a public display of money and helplessly looking on while Tom, Dick and Harry are filling their pockets. It is only in those dark corners and doubtful places, of which the general public has scarcely any knowledge, that those astounding feats in financiering are performed. It is there alone that money is given away as freely as water, and no account made of it. It would be a fascinating picture in life—an evidence of the possibility of a higher civilization, were not there ample grounds for the dreadful suspicion that under this display of generosity lurked plans and conspiracies for robbing the public.

Trays with $2,000 in coin upon them are not exposed in supervisorial elections, with an invitation more or less marked to everybody to help themselves, unless there were good grounds for calculating that it could be got back again with interest. There was nothing about the testimony to show that this curious adjunct of our elections was at all unusual or phenomenal. Indeed, there is nothing in it to remove the suspicion that trays, with large sums of money on them, are the usual and recognized appliances. It was brought out on the occasion under consideration without any of the display which marks an uncommon occurrence. It was projected into the election with a smoothness and ease that are suggestive. The side-light which it throws may lead to other explorations that will be of interest to the public.

DEATH OF A CIRCUS GIANT.—The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial of the 12th inst. says: "While the Chicago Circus was traveling down the Peninsula the giant boy, only sixteen years of age, was taken sick with the typhoid fever, and being unable to proceed further, was left at Frankfort, a small village in Sussex county, as the caravan passed through. He was without money or friends, and subsisted upon the charity of strangers until death relieved him on the 5th inst. The lad measured seven feet four inches when laid out for burial."

AN AGED SNAKE.—The San Juan Times pooh-poohs a Marysville story that a rattle-snake of twenty-seven rattles had been killed there. There is nothing remarkable about that story. Mr. J. H. Lynch of the American Exchange saloon, on Sansom street, called at this office and showed us the rattles of a snake killed in Shasta county about two years ago. There are twenty-eight rattles and a button. The snake was thirty-one years old, and seven and a half feet long.—Alta California, Nov. 11.

THE TERRITORIES.

Geo. L. Pearson and John M. Murphy have been commissioned as Notaries Public by the Governor of Washington Territory.

Seventeen candidates were up for Representative in Walla Walla county at the recent election. The two lowest on the list were O. T. Porter and W. H. Newell, each receiving 331 votes. There were six out of the seventeen to elect.

The Seattle Intelligencer says: "Another coal barge is on the ways for the Renton Coal Mining Co. It will be a trifle larger than the one recently launched, being 84 feet long, 21½ feet breadth of beam, and three feet depth of hold, with a carrying capacity of 100 tons.

It is reported that "Iron Clark," a well known character about Olympia, has fallen heir to the sum of $80,000 by the death of a near relative. A number of gentlemen were, at last accounts, searching for him, to impart the glad tidings, and the general impression appears to be that he is not "such a bad fellow after all."

Gov. Ferry on the 17th inst. issued commissions of Probate Judge, under the new law, to the following persons: A. F. Chapman, in Mason county; A. R. Elder, Thurston; J. Forney, Wahkiakum; Jos. Comstock, Kitsap; Wm. Collins, Skamania; H. Taylor, Chehalis; Miles S. Griswold, Pacific; L. H. Whitehouse, Cowlitz; W. V. Harper, Klikitat; Robert C. Hill, Island; James Waldrip, Whitman; J. H. Plaster, Whatcom.

Michael Hartigan, who was to have been executed at Vancouver on Friday next, for the murder of one A. Volwintrel, in Janury last, had death sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. Governor Ferry was induced to interpose executive clemency by the strongest representation, affidavits and petitions from Clarke county, which raised a doubt as to whether the murder was premeditated, or deliberated upon, by the defendant.

The pro tem editor of the Olympia Courier "valedicts" by thanking the friends who have shown him little favors and inviting those whom he has offended and who threaten dire vengeance, to call around at any time and settle with the editor when that gentleman returns. "And now, dear reader," says he, "farewell. We resign, without regret, the shears and paste-pot, to one who is more of an adept in their use than we have been."

In the case of the man found dead the other day on the railroad track near Promontory, the Coroner's jury at Ogden returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from being run over by a Central Pacific train, while attempting to steal a ride on a fruit car. No clue to his identity was discovered, but it is supposed that he was a miner who had lately been prospecting in Cache valley, and was formerly a resident of Shasta, Cal.

GENERAL NOTES.

A colored girl has been admitted to the High School at Keokuk, Iowa, but it took a mandamus from the Circuit Court to get her in.

A Chicago "personal" announces that "Olive Logan's husband is at the Sherman House." It must be very gratifying to a man to be announced in that way.

An ex-Confederate, General O'Neal, who served under Stonewall Jackson, is shoveling dirt on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway for $1 a day.

An Indiana clergyman sued a newspaper for libel and dropped dead within a week. The Detroit Free Press says these fellows will learn something by and by.

Judge Cutting, in discharging a couple of ill-looking prisoners at Ellsworth, just tried and acquitted by the jury of a charge of stealing sheep, tersely said: "Young men, I should advise you to go home and steal no more sheep.

A gentleman sat down at a table in an Oshkosh restaurant the other day and called for a "bill of particulars." "Brooklyn, by thunder!" roared the by-standers in a gust of moral indignation, as they shot him through the doorway with the velocity of a Remington rifle-ball.

A large piano manufactory in New Haven has been fitted out with a novel system of fire apparatus. In every twelve feet square throughout the building is a projecting water-spout with the end soldered up. In case of fire it is expected that the solder will be melted and thus a flood of water let on.

The manufacture of plate-glass is an industry which has not yet been thoroughly naturalized in this country. A large establishment which has been for a year and a half on foot at Platin Rock, about thirty miles south of St. Louis, the Republican says will be at work before the close of the year.

A Marine City, Michigan paper has this pretty little fish story: "A sunfish that had been kept in a globe for upward of a year, in the family of J. McElroy, appeared to be sick, so much so that it was feared the pet would die. The fish was accordingly thrown into the deep water of the St. Clair river, a month since, and disappeared under the surface. A few days ago, the same fish was recaptured close in shore by some boys, and returned to its glass prison, evidently well-pleased with its summer vacation and glad to get back home again.

BEN. BUTLER AND THE NEWSPAPER MEN.

General Butler, in one of his speeches last winter, replying to certain strictures made on his course by the newspaper correspondents here, shook his fist at the reporters' gallery, and comparing the gentlemen who occupied it to a forty jackass power mud machine, defied them to do their worst. Yesterday morning, as stated in this column, the following dispatch was sent by "the boys" to their adversary:

WASHINGTON, November 4, 1874.

General B. F. Butler, 12 Pemberton Square, Boston:

One thousand yards of crape have been purchased for the "forty jackass power mud machine." When will the procession move?

NEWSPAPER ROW.

General Butler, though popularly supposed to be laid out by his constituents beyond hope of resurrection, like "the fine ould Irish gentleman," couldn't endure "to lay there and be dead" under such provocation, and he retorts in this characteristic style:

BOSTON, November 4.

Newspaper Row, Washington:

Wise men do not mourn for jackasses.

B. F. BUTLER.

We are afraid "the boys" haven't made much in this tilt with old Ben.—Washington Evening Star.

PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL PRIZE FIGHT.—St. Louis, Nov. 9.—There is quite a stir here among the sporting fraternity over the proposed international prize fight between Tom Allen, champion of America and Jem Mace. The former wants to retire from the ring, and before he leaves he is desirous to wipe out the defeat he received from Mace at New Orleans in 1871. He has sent a challenge to Bell's Life offering to fight Jem Mace, Joe Coburn, or any other man in the world, for $1,000 to $5,000 a side and the championship of the world, the fight to take place in California, Kansas or Louisiana three months from the signing of the articles. Allen also agrees to allow Mace $500 for expenses.

A LIQUOR-SELLER'S DEFENSE.—The San Francisco Alta says: "A man tried in Tuolumne county, California, lately for selling wine to the Indians, sought to escape punishment on the ground that the liquid he sold as wine was really a mixture of water, vinegar, and sugar. He failed to prove this averment; but he called attention to the fact that on a previous occasion he had been tried for selling whisky, which proved, on examination, to be water, vinegar, and cayenne pepper. So it seems to be a crime to sell the genuine article, and no crime to sell a fraudulent imitation. A man proves that he has been guilty of a greater offense to escape punishment for a smaller one."

COOS BAY.

ITS COAL MINES AND FUTURE PROSPECTS.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

EMPIRE CITY, Nov. 11, 1874.

Since I wrote you last the rain has continued until the present time, with a few intervals of dry and bright hours. I suppose this is just what the farmers want for the time being; but for those opening coal mines, making repairs and building railroads, as is the case on Coos Bay and its adjoining sloughs, it is a great drawback and a serious loss of time.

THE EASTPORT COAL MINE

Is manifesting more life and energy by anticipating the approaching competition that the new coal mines now being opened will necessarily produce, and the probable reduction that will ensue in San Francisco by putting so many coals on the market. The company are building a new track, including an immense trestle-work and bunker, sixty feet high, that will enable them to load their steamers in eight hours, and vessels of ordinary size in four hours, or as fast as the coal can be received and the vessel trimmed. This will be a saving of two days in the loading. The work will be finished by January, at a cost of $20,000.

THE NEWPORT COAL MINE,

Owned by Messrs. Flanigan & Mann, is one of the most successful on the Coal Mine slough. Everything in and about the mine indicates good judgment, excellent order and superior taste, and the results demonstrate successful management and encouraging profits. They are conscious of the competition that must necessarily follow the rapid development of the new coal mines on the bay and are preparing to meet it in the true spirit of business men. The organization of the company here and in San Francisco is such as to meet any stage or state of the market. They are as distinguished for their attention to the comforts and enjoyments of their men and families, and for their hospitality to visitors, as they are for their successful mining operations. These two mines—Newport and Eastport—are similar in many respects. Each mine can produce from 100 to 200 tons of coal a day, according to the demand. They employ about 65 men each when in full operation. First-class miners can make $5 a day; the average is about $4. Drivers and other responsible men get $3; ordinary hands get $40 a month and board. Indolent and incompetent men get their walking papers without delay. Both mines have the great advantage of competent and reliable Superintendents—Mr. G. Wingate is Manager of the Eastport mine, and Mr. R. M. Hutchinson is the General Superintendent of the Newport mine.

THE COOS BAY (OREGON) MINING COMPANY,

At Henryville, on the Isthmus slough, under the superintendence of Dr. C. A. Henry, is one of the new coal mines lately opened. It is 8 miles from the head of the bay at Marshfield, and at the head of deep water on Isthmus slough. At the wharf there is 15 feet of water at low tide and 21 feet at flood tide, so that any vessel that can cross the bar can come up to Henryville. The amount of work accomplished since June last is remarkable, and shows that Dr. Henry is the man for the [illegible] the times. To be sure, he is backed by a body of Directors that have ample means, such as Mr. M. J. McDonald, President of the Company, and W. Carr, Thos. Shannon, Geo. M. Pinney, G. Lake. The main tunnel is opened 500 feet; 8 rooms are in working order, constructed in [illegible] scientific manner, with due regard to safety, drainage and ventilation. The distance from the mine to the bunker is [illegible] feet, [illegible] feet of which are high and heavy [illegible] two-thirds of which is completed, [illegible] a railroad track is being laid. [illegible] the coal will be conveyed to the [illegible] where vessels will be loaded. The bunkers will hold 1,000 tons, from which vessels can be loaded in 8 hours. Workshops, dwellings [illegible] for the men and their families are [illegible] A good general store is in full operation. A mess house and sleeping apartments are completed for the men. The general aspect of the place is most cheering and encouraging in its general outline and in all its [illegible] The [illegible] of all is, the coal is there in large quantities and of excellent quality. The brig Josephine arrived yesterday at Henryville and commenced loading this morning at the wharf by means of an extemporized shute, until the trestle work is finished, and the track completed. This is the beginning of what may fairly be considered a successful future. Dr. Henry says that the Directors have made an arrangement with a Company in San Francisco for all the coal they can ship for 12 months, for steam purposes, at $8 per ton; that there will be two coal steamers on the line by July, and 200 hands employed by the same time.

THE UTTER COAL MINING COMPANY

Is on Beaver Slough, five miles beyond the Coos Bay Oregon Coal Mining Company. With very limited means, but by indomitable perseverance, untiring energy, integrity of character and great experience, Mr. William Utter has secured the confidence of many friends of ample means, by which he has been able to accomplish great results, such as few men in his circumstances would even attempt. He has secured a most valuable mine. The main tunnel is 500 feet, and the coal successfully reached. He has built a line of railroad 5½ miles long, that reaches from the mine to deep water, a short distance below Henryville. The road is almost entirely graded. Four and a half miles of track is laid, and had it not been for the last twelve days' rain the whole line would have been almost completed by this time. A sawmill is in full working order that cuts 10,000 feet a day, by which all his lumber was cut. At the terminus of the road he is building a town which he calls "Utter City," which already consists of a store, saloon, hotel, butcher's shop and several dwelling houses, either built or being erected. At the sawmill a hotel and several houses and workshops are being erected; the same at the mine. A 12-ton locomotive is on the way from San Francisco. The whole establishment bears the evidence of a master mind planning and directing the whole operations. Mr. Utter has the assurance, such is the excellent quality of the coal in his mine—that one company in San Francisco will take all he can ship, at remunerative prices. It will probably be three months before he will be in a position to ship. Mr. Utter has not only the confidence of his immediate friends, but the hearty co-operation of all his foremen and workmen, the good will of the entire community and their best wishes for his success. Should his plans prove successful he will continue his railroad to the Coquille river, a distance of three miles, so as to connect that important river with Coos Bay, and thereby open up a profitable market for the farmers of the rich and productive valley of the Coquille and the trade of Coos Bay, as well as for the stores at Utter City and Henryville. These new coal mines and this railroad are the beginning of enterprises that will lead, in two or three years, to grand results for the development of the vast resources of coal, lumber, iron, ship-building and agriculture that abound in Coos Bay, its rivers and sloughs, Coquille Valley and the country at large.

THE NORTH PACIFIC COAL MINING CO.

Have a valuable coal mine adjoining Mr. Utter's. They have just commenced clearing the ground preparatory to opening the main tunnel. The company have ample means to open the mine to advantage, and to work it successfully. Captain D. R. Dale, an experienced civil engineer, has been lately appointed general superintendent. He will soon find his way to the coal. Both he and Mr. Utter have their business office at

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV 19 1874

AN UNREPUBLICAN SYSTEM ABANDONED

One of the most significant facts connected with the late political changes, is the marked departure from usages of years standing in connection with party caucuses. The caucus is a Democratic invention which the best of the old time politicians strongly opposed but which nevertheless grew into a universal custom. From the Democracy it was transplanted to the Republican party, where despite the protest of many who had taken part in organizing the party the doctrine of the absolute binding force of the decisions of the caucuses was pressed to even greater lengths than ever in the Democratic organization. The conscience of the [illegible] was [illegible] and unconditionally surrendered into the keeping of the party caucus, so that if a majority of the caucus said he should support a particular man or measure, he must acquiesce and obey or lose his standing in the party. No more dangerous principle could be introduced into any system of popular government, for the foundation of all popular government is the exercise of individual judgment and its natural consequence, individual responsibility. But it was [illegible] this consideration was urged upon the party leaders. They attempted no reply, nor essayed any vindication of the practice, except that it [illegible] yet devised of applying party discipline, and of keeping the party solid. In the secret [illegible] schemes concocted, [illegible] which would not bear the light, but were admirably adapted to cement the party in the closest relations. Private interest, which is ever the [illegible] professional politicians to each other, could be substituted for that patriotic desire for the public weal which is always the ostensible, and sometimes the real bond of political union, and thus the personal ambitions of the politicians could all be turned in the direction of keeping the party solid, regardless of the question of public good.

But among other unrepublican practices that have been condemned stands this caucus system. It was one of the first objects against which the attacks of the independent Republicans were directed. All over the East it has for two years been repudiated by [illegible] Where [illegible] it has been attempted, the attempt has, in most instances, [illegible] with defeat and disaster to those who tried to enforce the decrees of the [illegible] conclave. The Republican Senators elected within the last two years have been chosen without any [illegible] of those called upon to vote for them. In one case at least a long struggle to reach an election, but when it was reached there were no accusations of fraud and corruption following in its wake.

Notably, the [illegible] in [illegible] brought disaster to its friends, in the late [illegible] election. Gen. Butler's nomination, [illegible] nomination, [illegible] combination, were all the result of previous caucusing. The vicious system that [illegible] encouraged in Oregon under the manipulation of the Hipple ring, of caucusing in sections, and then caucusing the most favorable of these sections in a larger section [illegible] to impose a majority of the convention, and then enforcing the wishes of a few by general [illegible] into requisition [illegible] these nominations. The desired result was reached in the convention. And then, men of the stamp of Henry L. Dawes and James G. Blaine, men far above the best average of any party's leaders, wielding, and rightly, too, an immense influence among Republicans, went upon the stump to urge the voters to stand by the caucus, to sustain the party for the party's sake, to give up their sense of individual duty and individual responsibility as they had done in the not distant past, shut their eyes to the candidates and the manner of their selecting and vote for them—no, not for them, for that would be asking too much, but for the party. The people of those districts a vast majority of them Republicans by nature, tradition, [illegible] torily refused obedience. They resented, as an insult, the demand they had long acceded to without serious murmur. They [illegible] caucus districts. They thus vindicated their devotion to [illegible] defeating every Republican candidate who had made himself such through the unrepublican machine invented by Democrats to enable the party managers to control the consciences of individual members. The general repudiation of the caucus system is a substantial point gained by the true Republicans.

SOME FACTS THAT WILL NOT DOWN.

The Bulletin regales its readers with almost two columns more of fulsome adulation of Colonel Cornelius, interspersed with occasional remarks designed to tickle the ribs of His Excellency Governor Grover. It claims that we have "abused" the Governor. We deny it. We have never intimated that Grover is a corrupt man. That charge has been made by the Bulletin, but we have given it no countenance, because we believed it to be untrue and therefore unjust. We have said Grover was too timid, too much afraid of the effect on his own standing to do his duty in cases requiring the exercise of a little moral courage. Not in connection with this matter about the unsigned bills alone, but in connection with many other matters, have we criticised him for his cowardice. And in pronouncing him a man with a sad deficiency of spinal column, we have but said what has been said of him publicly and privately ever since his first entrance into Oregon [illegible] and notably since his election as Governor, and what every intelligent person in the State knows to be true. We have not the slightest idea that Governor Grover is a corrupt man. [illegible] the [illegible] to be a scoundrel, and we shall not [illegible] has the disposition till the Bulletin or some other of his accusers of a year ago make good their accusations against him.

As to Cornelius, it is useless and worse than useless for him to secure the Bulletin's columns to be filled from day to day with the lame efforts of the ring editor to get him out of the [illegible] into which his subservience [illegible] to the ring and to his warehouse monopoly have placed him. The facts stare him in the face. The letter of Secretary Chadwick—even the part of it which the Bulletin did not suppress—which is offered to prove Cornelius innocent proves him guilty as charged. The mistake his champion made in introducing that letter he attempts to retrieve by special pleading, but it all comes to nothing but words—"[illegible] nihil."

Colonel Cornelius and his abettors or instigators—in this wrong to the people of Oregon, would like to have the people lose sight of the main points in the case amidst a general wrangle over non essentials, but in that they are doomed to disappointment. The facts are of too serious consequence to the State to be forgotten so easily. After all the rant and fustian of the ring the truth—calamitous truth to this isolated commonwealth—will still stand out clearly defined that a few days before the close of the session of the Legislature the President of the Senate resigned on account of an accident which resulted in the death of his daughter; that thereupon Col Cornelius was chosen to preside for the few remaining days, that a bill was duly passed by both houses so changing the laws of this State as to offer to foreign capitalists who might invest their capital in the building of our railways and the development of the resources of our State, the right to control and protect their investments by holding a majority in the Board of Directors in the corporations through which the investments may be made; that the bill was duly enrolled an hour and a half before the hour designated by the joint resolution fixing the time for adjournment; that it was signed by the Speaker of the House as the Constitution requires; that its passage had been opposed by the Holladay ring, of which Col Cornelius was the leader in the Senate; that without signing the bill he declared the Senate adjourned before the time designated—that just before doing so, his attention was specially called to the fact that the time had not yet expired and that the bills remained unsigned by him; and that the validity of the law is now denied by the said ring on the express ground of its wanting his signature. From these facts, people will draw their own inferences, and these will not be materially affected by the special pleading of the ring organ.

UP AND DOING

COL CHAPMAN TO THE PEOPLE

Citizens of Portland and vicinity: Judging from the anxiety [illegible] nowhere more than among yourselves, for the success of the Portland and Salt Lake Railroad, and with the closing campaign before us it is but reasonable to presume that you desire to know what is to be done? What can be done to further this great enterprise? This session of Congress will determine in all human probability the future of this great enterprise, at least so far as Congressional aid is concerned. As you know our bill has been reported favorably by the Committees of both Houses and stands high on the calendar of the Senate, and may be reached in ten days of the session. Other important enterprises of the kind, none of which is more important nationally or locally than this, must yet be worked up before Committees, and such is the popularity of this that they cannot afford to ignore it. Except they do we have no reason to do aught against them. We can well afford to trust to the superiority of our line against all odds. It is nature's line—it is the true commercial line able to defend itself when constructed against any other possible one. Foreign capitalists have investigated it and pronounced it the twin of the Central Pacific and offer to invest in its construction independent of Congressional aid. But the local aid required would bear heavily upon the people, more than I think they ought to bear. With reasonable Congressional aid more reasonable terms may be secured, and its construction between the Columbia and the Union Pacific accomplished in two years, which substantially would be a connection between Portland and New York for the reason that palace steamboats on the Columbia [illegible] would equal the facilities of transportation by rail. I need not recount to you the advantages to the city of Portland that must result from the construction of the road. The square of country with its [illegible] products that will be tributary to Portland is positively grand to contemplate. [illegible] should be shown and should be prosecuted with vigor and determination. Every well wisher of our country should put forth his [illegible] energies in its behalf. Resolutions are well enough in their place. Then, without [illegible] or tumult, let us rally in support of a cause indissolubly connected with the prosperity and happiness of the Pacific Northwest, of which Portland is the common emporium.

Recent [illegible] necessitate the necessity of my presence at Washington, and God willing, I shall be away on Monday or Tuesday next.

Yours, truly,

W. W. CHAPMAN.

PROCEEDINGS AGAINST NENA SAHIB SUSPENDED.—London, Nov. 11.—The Times' special from Calcutta announces that Viceroy Lord Northbrooke has ordered a suspension of formal proceedings against the person supposed to be Nena Sahib until a more mature [illegible] can be had in the case. The difficulties of identification are increasing, and opinions are divided.

THE CAUSE.—A New York dispatch gives the following as the cause of the recent strike of Longshoremen in New York: "The steamer lines have decided owing to the general decrease in the volume and rates of freight to reduce the wages of the Longshoremen from 40 to 30 cents an hour."

POOR DAWES.—Mr Dawes cannot fail to see this morning that he has made an ass of himself. He can step down and out. No bloody shirt shaker [illegible] apply at the State House for Charles Sumner's seat. We will have a statesman there please God.—Boston Herald, Nov 4th.

THIS ASSOCIATION WAS INCORPORATED AT Portland, Oregon October 29th 1874 with a Capital Stock of $100,000 on a United States gold coin basis and under the laws of the State of Oregon for the purpose of issuing Life, Endowment and Annuity Policies on such terms and at such rates as will be within the means of every citizen and retain at home the large sums annually sent East for Life Insurance which can be as safely and to the public more advantageously, invested in building up our home interests.

Mutual Life Insurance in its truth is simply the agreement of any number of persons that upon the death of any one of them those left living shall each contribute a certain agreed sum which in its total or aggregate shall be given to the family—wife or child relative or estate—as stipulated by the deceased. But such persons so agreeing (if any considerable number) require the services of a responsible agency for the collection and disbursement of such moneys, and it is for such purpose that this Association has been organized and duly incorporated under the laws of the State.

The safe and honorable management of the affairs of the Association is guaranteed by its incorporators, whose names are a warranty to the public for safe custody of their trust funds.

Life Policies.

In issuing these, the design of the Association is as agents of the people to provide them with the advantages of a Mutual Life or Mutual Contribution system of Life Insurance at actual cost without unnecessary and in some cases unbearably, heavy expense to which the public have heretofore been compelled to submit.

The originators of the beneficent plan of Mutual Life Insurance never designed that the participants should pay four times its actual cost, nor indeed any cost, until the anticipated deaths had actually occurred. Common sense tells us that paying a debt when it is due is sufficient in all business transactions.

Endowments,

Payable in five ten fifteen and twenty years will be issued by the Association in its corporate capacity giving its pledge for their true payment as stated over the signatures of their President and Secretary. That better interest on money and better results to the holders of such endowments can be obtained here than in the Eastern States or in Europe is evident when we consider the difference between the well known three to five and six to seven per cent realized in the East against the ten and twelve per cent interest that can be safely obtained on the Pacific Coast.

Annuities.

The Association issue Life Annuities for the payment each year of agreed or specified sums in gold coin, to the holders of such Policies these will be issued over the signatures of the President and Secretary. The same reasons which enable the Association to issue endowments or agreements to pay a specified sum at the end of a stated term of years and to give such endowments on better terms than can be done by any Eastern Life Insurance Company also apply in case of Annuities or a stated sum annually to be given by the Association.

San Francisco papers complimentary mention of several handsome paintings now on exhibition in that city at the Art Gallery, which are from the brush of two artists well known in Portland. These artists are Profs. Baumgras and Petzoldt. Both these gentlemen resided in this city not long since. Not finding art sufficiently appreciated here, they were induced to seek elsewhere a wider and more remunerative field for the brush and pencil. The pictures on exhibition in San Francisco, which are the creation of these gentlemen, are spoken of in flattering terms by the press. They are artists of acknowledged merit.

NOT SMALLPOX.—Dr. Rafferty, of East Portland, was summoned a few days since to see a patient who resides out in the country several miles from the town. After the person had been sick several days, the whole body became covered with small pustules very closely resembling smallpox. As the symptoms were of a similar character, the patient and the neighbors were alarmed and sent for a physician. Dr. Rafferty called, and after making a careful examination of the case, pronounced it chicken-pox of an aggravated type. At latest accounts the patient was getting along comfortably.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—The many friends of Mrs. F. S. Law, who has long filled the position of Matron at the "Home," will be pained to learn that that lady is hopelessly ill. She has been confined to her bed at the "Home" for many weeks. Mrs. Law is a devout Christian lady, beloved by all who know her. During the time she was Matron, the lady conducted the affairs of that charitable institution in a praiseworthy manner, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. By her uniform kindness to all those with whom she was brought in contact, she has endeared herself to the whole community.

THANKSGIVING EVE DINNER AND SOCIABLE.—Next Wednesday, between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock P. M., the ladies of the Sewing Society of the M. E. Church, will spread a Thanksgiving eve dinner in the basement of the Taylor street Church,—including, of course, all the substantials and delicacies of the season, the indispensable turkeys, mince, pumpkin pies, etc. In the evening at 8 o'clock, a Sociable will be given under the auspices of the same Society, when an enjoyable time may be expected.

PRISONERS ARRIVED.—Sheriff Schutz arrived last evening from the Dalles, having in custody two prisoners from Wasco county under sentence to the Penitentiary, each for the term of two years. These prisoners were tried and convicted at the present term of Circuit Court, charged with the crime of larceny from a dwelling house in Ochoco valley. They were lodged last night in the city jail and will be taken to Salem this morning.

UP THE RIVER.—The present cold spell of weather is causing the waters of the Upper Wallamet to fall quite rapidly. However, the stage of water remains very good. At present the O. S. S. Co. are running three boats on the upper river—the E. N. Cook, Fannie Patton and Albany. The Senator is lying at Oregon City.

STAR LINE.—This line now have the schooner Dreadnought on the berth at San Francisco. She will sail for this port on the 20th inst. The schooner Superior will follow the Dreadnought on the berth. The Menschikoff is now due at this port, having been out seven days from San Francisco.

MILITARY NOTES.

The telegraphic instructions of the 3d inst. to the commanding officer, Fort Walla Walla, to order Captain Stephen P. Jocelyn, 21st Infantry, to this city en route to Sitka, Alaska, on Court Martial duty, are confirmed.

A General Court Martial convened at Fort Vancouver yesterday at 9 o'clock. The following officers are detailed for duty: Captain George H. Weeks, Assistant Quartermaster; Captain William H. Bell, Commissary of Subsistence; Captain John A. Kress, Ordnance Department; Captain Stephen P. Jocelyn, 21st Infantry; 1st Lieut. Wm. F. Spurgin, 21st Infantry, Regimental Quartermaster; 1st Lieut. Joseph A. Sladen, 14th Infantry, Aide-de-Camp; 2d Lieut. Joseph W. Duncan, 21st Infantry; 1st Lieut. Geo. W. Evans, 21st Infantry, Adjutant, Judge Advocate of the Court.

PERSONAL.

We regret to announce that Chas. E. Calef, Esq., is confined to his room by a severe spell of sickness.

The attendance at Beck & Waldman's continues large, and why? Because they have everything complete in their line, and the prices are low. If you want a winter suit for yourself or your boy go to this house.

Dr. Steele's Medical Wonder has stood the test of time as the cure for rheumatic and other pains, as well as colds, coughs, cramps, &c. Taken with Wonder Pills for liver complaints, kidney disorders and impure blood. For sale everywhere.

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, or boy, than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

FASHIONABLE OUTFITS.—Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS. KOHN, opposite National Bank. There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen, boys and children will be found. At all times the prices have been the lowest known to the market, but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced. Mr. Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear.

The great Frenchman, Altaroche, made specialties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings but JOHN O'NIEL & CO. make specialties of selling the finest clothing, underwear, cravats, [illegible] and hats at unparalleled low prices. For a winter suit theirs are of the best, so get yourself dressed and be at rest. This is not irony or sarcasm, but stubborn [illegible] about in that way and must have clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—Last evening the exciting drama of "The Red Pocket Book" was rep[illegible] A good audience was present, and the drama, in all its details, was rendered in a very superior style. By his careful and finished personation of the character of "Francis Clay," the young Virginian, and afterwards the convicted felon, Mr. [illegible] won new laurels. His rendition of that character could have been equalled, but scarcely surpassed by any artist. As "Florence," the brave, constant, devoted wife and mother, Mrs. Phelps fairly outdid all former efforts in the display of true dramatic passion. Mr. Leroy, as the rough but true hearted old sea captain—"Capt. Chandler"—appeared perfectly at home. As neat a piece of acting as we have had the pleasure of witnessing for some time, was performed by Mr. Jas. Barrows, who personated "Chas. Fitzgerald," a gambler and [illegible] Mr. E. Kelly took the part of "John Brady," a sailor, but a true son of [illegible] in a [illegible] factory style, [illegible] Mr. Gunning assumed the role of the young banker, Mr. Averill, in a natural, easy manner. As "Dr. Brady," Mr. Crowell acquitted himself in his usual style. The character of "Emma" was cleverly personated by Miss Lizzie Morgan, and that of Mrs. Daniels, by Miss Brady. The scenes were all worked up in good style and the spectacular effects were really fine. This evening the "Red Pocket Book," for the last time. Do not fail to see it.

The [illegible] and so it all ever be—a full head of hair denotes strength and [illegible] This can now be [illegible] by the use of "LYON'S KATHAIRON," the finest hair dressing in the world.

Some people will gourmandize, and then wonder why they feel bad about the head and stomach. The coats of the stomach were not made like doll-babies to be played with; they were kindly provided by nature to give health to the system. Over-indulgence in eating or drinking produces injury upon these delicate parts, and the best remedy that can be used is PLANTATION BITTERS, which may be had in every part of the world.

Racers.—In the most widely known racing and trotting [illegible], in the establishments of [illegible] and city car companies, and among gentlemen who keep their horses, the MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT has gained the most exalted reputation as the best of all ointments, lotions or embrocations ever introduced into the American market. It has been tested thirty years, and nowhere has it been superseded by any novelty. Go where you will, the first thing a farmer goes for, when his horses or cattle are ailing, is this MUSTANG LINIMENT.

The regular use of HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM removes those unsightly freckles which dim beauty. Freckles usually occur upon persons of fair complexion, and are the result of faulty cutaneous secretions. They disfigure the face, and give a dowdy look to the skin. The application of the "MAGNOLIA BALM" inspirits the secretions; the cause of freckling is removed, and with it, the freckles disappear.

THE OLD MAN ELO[illegible]

NEW RALLY SCENE IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

On the opening of the Twenty Sixth Congress in December 1839 in consequence of a two [illegible] delegation from New Jersey the House was disabled for some time to complete its organization and presented to the country and the world the perilous and discreditable [illegible] of the assembled representatives of the [illegible] unable to [illegible] themselves into a constitutional body. On first assembling the House has no officers, and the Clerk of the preceding Congress acts as Chair[illegible] until the body till a Speaker is chosen. On this occasion after reaching the State of New Jersey the acting Clerk declined to proceed in calling the roll and refused to entertain any of the motions which were made for the purpose of extricating the House from its embarrassment. Many of the ablest and most judicious members had [illegible] the House [illegible] and there was nothing but confusion and disorder in prospect.

The fourth day opened and still confusion was triumphant. But the hour of its enthrallment was at hand and a scene was presented which [illegible] to those [illegible] when Cromwell uttered the exclamation "Sir Harry Vane woe unto you Sir Harry Vane" and in an instant dispersed the famous Rump Parliament.

Mr Adams from the opening of this scene of confusion and anarchy, had maintained a profound silence. He appeared to be engaged most of the time in writing. To a common observer he seemed to be heedless of everything [illegible] but [illegible] not the slightest incident escaped him. The fourth day of the struggle had now commenced. Mr Hugh H Garland the Clerk [illegible] call the roll [illegible]

He commenced with Maine as was usual in those days, and was proceeding toward Massa[illegible] [illegible] was ready to get the floor at the earliest mo[illegible] possible. His keen eye w[illegible] his hands clasped the front edge of [illegible] desk, where he always placed them to as[illegible]

"New Jersey" ejaculated Mr Hugh H Garland, and the Clerk has to repeat that [illegible]

Mr Adams sprang to the floor

"I rise to interrupt the Clerk" was his first ejaculation

"Silence! Silence!" resounded through the hall. "Hear him—hear him!" "Hear what [illegible] Adams" were the numerous ejaculations on all sides

In an instant the most profound silence reigned throughout the hall—you might have heard [illegible] fall in any part of it—and every eye was riveted on the venerable Nestor of Massachusetts. He paused for a moment and having given Mr Garland a withering look he proceeded to address the multitude

"It was not my intention, [illegible] to take any part in these extraordinary [illegible] ing. I had hoped that this house would succeed in [illegible] Clerk would be elected, and that the ordinary business of legislation would be pro[illegible]. This is not the time or place to discuss the merits of the conflicting claimants for seats from New Jersey. That subject belongs to the House of Representatives, which, by the Con[illegible] spectacle we here present! We degrade and disgrace [illegible] and cannot organise and why? Because the Clerk of this House, the mere Clerk, whom we [illegible] employ, and whose existence depends upon our will, usurps the throne, and sets us, the representatives, the vice[illegible] of the whole American people at defiance, and holds us in contempt. And what is this Clerk of yours? Is he to suspend by his [illegible], the functions of government, [illegible] He refuses to call the roll. It is in your power to compel him to call it if he will not do it voluntarily." (Here he was interrupted by a member, who said that he was [illegible] to say that [illegible] not [illegible] the Clerk, who had avowed that he would resign rather than call the State of New Jersey.) "Well, sir, let him [illegible]" continued Mr Adams, "and we may [illegible] discover some way by which we can get along, without the aid of his all powerful talent, learning, and genius. If we cannot organise in any other way—if this Clerk of yours will not consent to our discharging the trusts confided to us by our constituents, [illegible] let us imitate the example of the [illegible] which when the colonial Governor Dinwiddie ordered it to [illegible] refused to obey the imperious and insulting mandate and like men——"

The [illegible] could no longer [illegible] their enthusiasm any longer, but saluted the indignant speaker with loud and deafening cheers but seemed to shake the Capitol to its centre. [illegible] the very chaos of anarchy which had for three successive days pervaded the American Congress, was dispelled by the magic [illegible] man, and once more the wheels of Government and legislation were put in motion.

Having by this powerful appeal brought the yet [illegible] assembly to a perception of its hazardous position he submitted a motion requiring the acting Clerk to proceed to call the roll. This and similar motions had already been made by other members. The difficulty was that the acting clerk declined to entertain them. [illegible] Mr Adams was immediately interrupted by a burst of voices demanding "How shall the question be put?" "Who will put the question?" The voice of Mr Adams was heard above the tumult, "I intend to put the question myself!" That word brought order out of chaos. There was the [illegible] mind.

As soon as the multitude had recovered itself and the excitement of irrepressible enthusiasm had abated Mr Richard Barnwell Rhett, of South Carolina, leaped upon one of the d[illegible] and exclaimed, "I move that the Honorable John Q Adams take the chair of the Speaker of this House and [illegible] officer. As many as are [illegible] to this will say aye, the [illegible]"

He had not an opportunity to complete the sentence—"those who are not agreed will say no"—for the universal, [illegible], thundering "aye" [illegible] to the [illegible] ination.

Hereupon it was moved and ordered that Louis Williams, of North Carolina and Richard Barnwell Rhett, conduct John Quincy Adams to the chair. In [illegible] of this scene Mr Wise, of Virginia said "Sir, I regard it as the proudest hour of your life and if when you shall be gathered to your fathers I were asked to [illegible] the words which, in my judgment, are [illegible] the character of the man, I would inscribe upon your tomb this sentence 'I will put the question myself'"—[illegible] News.

FIRE IN A THEATRE.—The Worcester (Mass) Gazette of the [illegible] says "At the theater last evening the action of Jane Eyre had advanced to the night scene in Lord Rochester's house when an accident which might have led to most serious results occurred upon the stage. [illegible], who played Sam was blowing out the candles in the room in preparation for the dark scene in which Jane Eyre returns to the room for her portfolio and [illegible] the insane woman's attempt on Rochester's life when a muslin curtain hung at the left of the stage suddenly [illegible] Mr Jackson was cool and collected, and [illegible] to the curtain attempted to tear it from its fastenings it was quite firmly hung, however, and the flames were shooting [illegible]erously up against the 'flat' to which the curtain was fastened and which was slanted out [illegible] at the fire by Mr Jackson's pulling at the curtain. The audience behaved very properly although there was a slight motion toward a rush in some quarters as the scene-shifters rushed out to the assistance of the actor and began trampling out the fire which had communicated to the stage carpet, and was burning brightly over a space fully two yards square, but shouted assurances that there was no trouble, and the evident extinguishing of the fire by overturning a table and smothering the flames with its broad top, quieted the alarm and the excitement was entirely allayed. The drop curtain was wisely kept up till all was safe on the stage, and when it was lowered there was but a brief delay. The first scene of the drama, which occurs in the same act, seemed rather tame in contrast with the real danger just escaped. There was a crowded audience, and any approach to a panic might have led to very serious [illegible]."

Ayer's Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF

Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

R Has been widely used during the last twenty five years in the treatment of these distressing diseases and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes or chills once broken by it do not return until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specific for the Fever and Ague of the West and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease so that no Liver Complaints Rheumatism Neuralgia Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy
